BumbleBar, Inc.

Elizabeth Ward, along with husband Glenn Ward, is Co-CEO of BumbleBar, Inc., the original crafters of organic, vegan, gluten-free, ethically sourced sesame bars with pure and simple ingredients. By founding BumbleBar, Liz has been able to combine her two passions: healthy food and sustainability.

Since founding BumbleBar in 1995, Liz has been responsible for the Company's design and products, including the original product recipes and the packaging and marketing strategies.

Liz had her first taste of social and environmental activism at the age of 8 by volunteering in a soup kitchen. Years of activism followed including stints volunteering in Haiti. Liz then enjoyed life off the grid in the mountains of Oregon growing her own food and chopping wood.

After those five years in Walton, OR, Liz decided she needed to move back to the city in order to have a broader reaching impact. BumbleBar was born. Combined with being in the vanguard of socially responsible and green business practices, Liz's experience in food manufacturing, marketing, strategy and people management bodes well for the long term success of BumbleBar.
